Reagan Admirers Willing to Wait

SIMI VALLEY, CALIF. | Waiting good-naturedly for as much as half a day in traffic jams and a parking lot, tens of thousands of people filed past Ronald Reagan's flag-draped casket in an outpouring that forced organizers to extend the viewing period Tuesday by four hours.

An estimated 79,000 mourners had passed by the coffin in the 28 hours after the viewing began at noon Monday at Reagan's presidential library. The nation's 40th president died Saturday at age 93.

Traffic jams and the wait for shuttle buses encouraged camaraderie among the throngs, who passed the time sharing memories of Reagan.

The viewing at the library in the hills west of Los Angeles was the first event in a week of national mourning. The body will be flown to Washington on Wednesday to lie in state at the Capitol, followed by a national funeral on Friday and a return to the library for burial at sunset. JEREMIAH MARQUEZ (AP)

U.N. OKs Plan for Iraqi Rule

New government has limited authority in military matters

UNITED NATIONS | The U.N. Security Council gave a resounding 15-0 endorsement Tuesday to a U.S.-British resolution backing the transfer of sovereignty to Iraq's new government 14 months after the fall of Saddam Hussein.

France and Germany dropped their objections after the resolution included a last-minute compromise giving Iraqi leaders control over the activities of their own troops and a say on "sensitive offensive operations" by the multinational force. But the measure stops short of granting the Iraqis a veto over major U.S.-led military operations.

Bush

"These nations understand that a free Iraq will serve as a catalyst for change in the broader Middle East, which is an important part of winning the war on terror," President Bush said of the decision.

The resolution spells out the powers and the limitations of the new interim Iraqi government that will assume power on June 30. It authorizes the U.S.-led multinational force to remain in Iraq to help ensure security, but gives the Iraqi government the right to ask the force to leave at any time.

The interim government — constructed by a U.N. envoy, the Americans and their Iraqi allies — hopes the vote will give it a legitimacy that eluded its predecessor, the U.S.-appointed Iraqi Governing Council. That legitimacy would put it in a better position to curry support among fellow Arab regimes and seek economic help from abroad. EDITH M. LEDERER (AP)

FOOD FIGHT | Drop the Chalupa A man who claimed he didn't get the taco he paid for has been charged with assault for allegedly pelting a Des Moines, Iowa, Taco Bell clerk in the face with a chalupa. Nancy Harrison was working the drive-through Thursday night when Christopher Lame, 24, came inside, complaining he didn't get the taco he'd ordered earlier. Harrison told him the store was closing. As she turned away, a chalupa hit her in the face. Police identified Lame by his license plate number. (AP) EyeOpeners | Page 2

RETURNS

Didn't Like the Color

A thief took more than $200,000 from an ATM — then broke into the bank to return half of the cash a week later. Police said Tuesday that the money was taken in May from the machine inside Barclays Bank in London. On May 28, staff discovered a large garbage bag filled with bank notes inside the bank, said police. About half the money had been returned. "We know we offer cash-back facilities but we didn't expect anything like this," a Barclays employee told a London paper. (EXPRESS)

GIANT CLOWN MURALS

Anything for the Boss

Tillie is a 14-foot wide by 16-foot tall mural of a clown on the wall of Palace Amusements in Asbury Park, N.J. Why should you care? Because Bruce Springsteen has used Tillie's likeness on T-shirts, calendars, videos and more. Largely due to the work of the Save Tillie group (led by Springsteen fan Bob Crane, above), the 15,000-pound mural is being moved to a storage site this week to prevent its demolition. (EXPRESS)

LONG WORDS

Spell That, Please

For years, many Austrians have griped about excessive legalese — a muddy maze of "herebys," "wherefores" and "pursuant tos." Vienna's city hall, besieged by complaints, has produced a new manual aimed at getting its clerks to write in simple, uncluttered German. Sadly, however, the German term for measures designed to cut through administrative red tape is a massive mouthful: "Verwaltungsvereinfachungsmassnahmen." (AP)

PUNISHMENTS

No Rest for the Beery

Drunks who throw up on the street in the Australian city of Bendigo may have to clean up their own mess under a new proposal, reported papers in Australia. Those charged with "anti-social behavior" would have to clean up the area in which they were arrested, instead of being fined. Police noted that men and women in their mid-20s were the primary offenders. Hotel owners, it was reported, are strongly in favor of the proposed law. (EXPRESS)

HELPFUL FOOD

Extra Butter on That?

A major exercise focused on cleaning up ocean oil spills is bound to be popular with the wildlife of a Norwegian fjord. Instead of creating a mess of sticky crude, the experts are dumping 175 cubic feet of popcorn. "We wanted the exercise to be as realistic as possible while also being environmentally friendly," operation adviser Kaare Joergensen said. When popcorn absorbs water it forms an emulsion that is very similar to spilled oil, and mimics the effect of ocean currents on oil. (AP)

Bad air out. Renewable energy in.

Clean air clears the way for summer fun! D.C. can clean the air by making the switch to renewable energy.

It's a slam dunk.

Clean energy will:

Reduce Code Purple and Red Days:

During these days, air quality exceeds EPA's health-based standards, making it unsafe to enjoy the outdoors.

Improve the Health of District Residents:

Clean energy cleans our air and protects our health, especially that of young children and the elderly. Particles from power plants send over 3,700 people to the emergency room each year and are responsible for almost 20,000 asthma attacks in the D.C. metropolitan area each year.*

Reduce energy bills: Renewable energy is both feasible and affordable. It moves us towards decreased reliance on foreign fossil fuels and would help stabilize spiking natural gas prices.

Create Jobs: Clean energy production is more labor intensive than traditional energy production. Wind and solar power each provide 40 percent more jobs per dollar than does coal.

The heads of 211 corporations have written President Bush urging him to accept a higher level of spending for future highway programs, saying a robust highway bill was critical to their own, and the nation's, economic growth. ## Ashcroft Refuses To Release Memo

WASHINGTON | Attorney General John Ashcroft, pressed by senators in testy exchanges Tuesday, refused to make public Justice Department memos that contended a wartime president was not bound by anti-torture laws or treaties.

However, Ashcroft denied that President Bush had issued orders that would have allowed violations of such laws.

During a three-hour appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Ashcroft repeatedly insisted that the Bush administration does not condone torture, even of al Qaeda terrorist suspects. He said his department would investigate vigorously anyone accused of torture who is outside military jurisdiction.

Still, the attorney general refused to give the committee copies of department memos written in 2002 that Democratic senators said could have laid legal groundwork for abuses that occurred at Iraq's Abu Ghraib prison and elsewhere in the war on terror.

One of the memos, cited in a March 2003 Pentagon policy paper, stated that the president's broad wartime national security authority may override anti-torture laws and treaties in certain circumstances. CURT ANDERSON (AP)

More Security Needed for E-Voting

WASHINGTON | The head of a federal voting commission called Tuesday for tougher security measures for electronic voting by the November elections, but said the issue of requiring paper receipts as backup needs further study.

DeForest B. Soaries, chairman of the Election Assistance Commission, said he wants election officials to be able to analyze software source code in the electronic systems they pay for, which some vendors have resisted.

"The increased use of electronic voting devices has created security concerns that the U.S. Election Assistance Commission must address," he said in remarks prepared for delivery at a Maryland conference of election officials.

In an interview before the speech, Soaries said the issue of paper ballots that voters can verify requires more study and that calling for such receipts by November would be unrealistic. He said it was possible the panel would back paper ballots in the future.

Some 50 million Americans are expected to vote electronically on Nov. 2. But concerns have grown since computer scientists began criticizing them as vulnerable to hackers. (AP)

G-8 Opens on Upbeat Note

Leaders at summit buoyed by passage of U.N. resolution on Iraq

SEA ISLAND, GA. | President Bush and other world leaders showcased a new harmony on Iraq on Tuesday as they met at their annual Group of Eight summit, but prickly issues remained over both Iraq and Bush's plan to promote democracy across the wider Middle East.

Bush hailed the passage of a new U.N. Security Council resolution on the transfer of sovereignty in Iraq as "a great victory for the Iraqi people" and thanked President Vladimir Putin for Russia's help in winning the vote.

Putin, who had opposed the U.S.-led war in Iraq, called the U.N. vote "a major step forward."

Of the powerful countries

Students in Savannah, Ga., greet French President Jacques Chirac on Tuesday as he arrives for the G-8 summit.

attending the summit on this secluded coastal resort island, only the United States, Britain, Italy and Japan have troops in Iraq. Japan's noncombat troops perform humanitarian missions.

Germany, France, Canada and Russia do not have troops in Iraq, and have said they will not send forces.

A social dinner Tuesday evening marked the formal opening of the summit, but Bush first had one-on-one meetings with the leaders of Japan, Canada, Germany and Russia.

Throughout the day, heads of state arrived at an Army airfield near Savannah and were taken by helicopter to Sea Island, a five-mile long private resort island that has been virtually sealed off from the mainland by barricades.

Police and journalists far outnumbered protesters, disappointing activists who said heavy security scared away many others. Protest marches in Brunswick and Savannah drew around 100 activists each on Tuesday. TOM RAUM (AP)

Guilty Plea In Cadet Rape Case

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, COLO. | The only cadet to face a court-martial following last year's Air Force Academy rape scandal pleaded guilty Tuesday to reduced charges.

Douglas L. Meester of Marco Island, Fla., was accused of assaulting a fellow cadet in October 2002 during a night of heavy drinking in a dorm room. He was originally charged with rape, sodomy, indecent assault and providing alcohol to minors.

Meester

Those charges were dropped and, in exchange, Meester pleaded guilty to conduct unbecoming an officer, indecent acts and dereliction of duty.

Meester, who had faced a life sentence, received a reprimand and was fined $2,000.

He has left the academy and is on extended leave from the Air Force. The service said his status will depend on the type of sentence he received. ROBERT WELLER (AP)

Soda May Lead to Diabetes in Women

ORLANDO, FLORIDA | Chugging more than one sugar-sweetened soft drink a day appears to significantly increase a woman's chances of developing diabetes, says a new study that found the extra sugar does more than just add pounds.

Women in the study who drank at least one sugar-sweetened soda a day were 85 percent more likely to develop type 2 diabetes than those who drank less, said Matthias B. Schulze, who presented the Harvard research at an American Diabetes Association meeting.

In addition to the sodas' excess calories, their large amount of rapidly absorbable sugars could contribute to obesity and a greater risk of diabetes, said Schulze. (AP)

Paying a Price for Organics

Families devise ways to eat all-natural despite higher costs

ALTAMONT, N.Y. | They buy rice at a co-op, fruit at farm stands and organic beef on Sundays, when supermarkets cut prices to clear the shelves.

Janelle Fletcher and her husband adopted those strategies to achieve two goals that can seem incompatible: feeding organic food to their family of five and staying within a middle-class budget.

Even as organics move from their health food niche into the mainstream, premium prices remain in many cases. Organic food — produced without pesticides, growth hormones or other additives — accounts for slightly less than 2 percent of U.S. food sales.

But the market has been experiencing a healthy growth spurt. Organic food sales almost tripled from 1997 through 2003 to $10.38 billion, according to the Organic Trade Association.

Organic food can be costlier for a number of reasons, including higher labor costs and economies of scale. A recent trip to the supermarket showed organic broccoli selling for a dollar more a head than conventional broccoli and organic carrots costing a third more.

The good news, according to Ronnie Cummins of the Organic Consumers Association, is that it's getting easier to root out organic bargains. He said the organic market is getting big enough that sales are now more common.

Higher prices linger, though. Fletcher recalls passing over organic strawberries for $3.50 a pint after seeing non-organic berries at half the price. MICHAEL HILL (AP)

U.S. Forces Free 4 Hostages in Iraq

Kidnappings continue despite successful raid to rescue Pole, Italians

BAGHDAD | U.S. special forces freed four hostages in a raid Tuesday after staking out their captors' hideout for a day — the first military rescue of foreigners caught up in Iraq's wave of kidnappings.

The raid ended the ordeal of a Pole kidnapped last week and three Italian security guards abducted in April whose co-worker was brutally slain. U.S. Lt. Gen. Ricardo Sanchez said the four freed men were in good health and that suspects "involved in the kidnapping" were detained.

But there was no word on the fate of a U.S. soldier held hostage and two other Americans missing since an attack on a fuel convoy nearly two months ago.

Meanwhile, Iraq's string of abductions showed no sign of abating. Gunmen disclosed they had kidnapped seven Turkish citizens who they said were working with the Americans. They showed some of their captives to reporters and released videotape of the others.

More than 40 people from several countries have been abducted in Iraq since April. Many have been released. At least two have been killed by their captors.

About 20 are still being held, said Andrew White, an Anglican cleric acting as a negotiator. Freeing the hostages is becoming more difficult since some may have been sold by their captors to anti-U.S. militants, said White, the Mideast envoy of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Car Bombs Kill U.S. Soldier, 14 Iraqis

BAGHDAD | Car bombers blasted targets in two Iraqi cities Tuesday, killing 15 people — including a U.S. soldier — and wounding 50.

The first of the car bombings occurred at a checkpoint outside the gate of a U.S. base in Baqouba, about 30 miles northeast of Baghdad, Maj. Neal E. O'Brien said.

American troops were preparing to inspect a vehicle when it exploded, killing one U.S. soldier and five Iraqis, the U.S. military and police said. Fifteen Iraqis and 10 U.S. soldiers were wounded.

A second car bomb exploded in the northern city of Mosul as a convoy of provincial council members passed by. The council members escaped injury, officials said. But nine people died and about 25 were injured, according to the U.S. military. Mosul's deputy police chief was injured, but not seriously.

Afterward, attackers fired mortar rounds at a coalition military base camp in Mosul. Two civilian contract employees were wounded, the U.S. military said. (AP)

U.S. Citizen Killed in Riyadh

Man worked in Saudi Arabia for N.Va. company

RIYADH, SAUDI ARABIA | An American who worked for a U.S. defense contractor in Virginia was shot and killed Tuesday in the Saudi capital, the second deadly shooting of a Westerner here in three days.

An unknown assailant killed the man in his home, said a spokesman for Vinnell Corp., based in Fairfax.

"He was found by another employee at his apartment and taken to a hospital, but did not survive," the spokesman, Jay McCaffrey, said. The victim was identified as Robert

C. Jacobs, 62, of Murphysboro, Ill., a seven-year employee of Vinnell.

Seven Vinnell employees were among the 35 people, including nine suicide bombers, who died last year in an attack on a foreigners' housing compound in Riyadh.

Vinnell, which has several dozen Americans in the kingdom training Saudi security forces, maintains a secure residential compound for its employees, but the victim chose not to live there, McCaffrey said.

The official Saudi news agency said police were investigating the death.

Islamic militants have carried out a series of attacks on Westerners in the kingdom during the past 13 months. The government has blamed the attacks on people inspired by, or belonging to, al Qaeda.

Insurgents shot a BBC team Sunday while it was filming a militant's family home in Riyadh. The cameraman, Simon Cumbers, 36, an Irish citizen, was killed and security correspondent Frank Gardner, 42, a Briton, was critically wounded.

Vatican to Open Files From WWII

Part of bid to disprove claims Pope Pius XII ignored Jews' plight

VATICAN CITY | The Vatican is releasing more than 2 million files from its secret archives, part of efforts to emphasize the humanitarian aspects of the World War II papacy of Pope Pius XII, officials announced Tuesday.

The Vatican said the documentation was "testimony to the ample charitable and social work inspired by principles of universality and impartiality" during Pius' pontificate.

For years, the Vatican has struggled to defend its wartime pope against claims he didn't do enough to save Jews from the Holocaust.

Last year, the Vatican began making available to scholars millions of Vatican documents from the years leading up to the war.

The files date from 1939 to 1946, covering inquiries from across Europe on the fate of servicemen from the various armies that fought in the war and other missing persons. The Vatican set up offices during World War II to help relatives trace family members.

The information will be contained in a two-volume work that will be available for $90. (AP)

Seoul, U.S. at Odds Over Repositioning of Troops

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA | Long-standing ties between the United States and South Korea faced a new test Tuesday, with the allies disagreeing over plans to consolidate U.S. bases in the South.

Seoul also said more talks are needed about separate plans by Washington to slash the number of American troops here. South Korean National Security Adviser Kwon Chin-ho described the U.S. proposal to pull a third of its 37,000 troops out by the end of next year as "nothing but a suggestion."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Adam Ereli said "no final decisions" have been made on the plan and insisted that a reduction in troop levels does not mean the alliance with the South — forged in the devastating 1950-53 Korean War — is weakening.

The U.S. plans, unveiled Sunday, represent the biggest troop realignment here since the early 1970s.

Meanwhile, talks over another sensitive issue — plans to move U.S. troops away from the tense border with communist North Korea to points farther south — ended in disagreement Tuesday.

Lt. Gen. Kwon Ahn-do, the main policy coordinator for South Korea's Defense Ministry, said the two sides disagreed over how much land would be needed for new bases, which would consolidate troops from around the country.

Girl, 11, Attacked by Group Of Teens on the Green Line

An 11-year-old girl was beaten up by a group of teens aboard a Metrorail Green Line train, authorities said Tuesday. They also said that in the last three to four weeks there have been other assaults on the subway, mostly on women traveling alone. The girl, Tanie Hazel, said she boarded a train at the Georgia Avenue station in Northwest Washington last Thursday when an older girl came up and began punching her. Four arrests have been made in the case, according to Metro Transit Police spokeswoman Linda Foxwell, who added that the suspects range in age from 13 to 15. The search continued for four others. Grand Jury Indicts 31 People In Drug-Trafficking Scheme

A federal grand jury has indicted 31 people in a scheme to traffic drugs and then launder the money by buying insurance policies on people without their knowledge, the U.S. Attorney's office announced Tuesday. Federal authorities said the ring, which distributed drugs for nearly nine years, was a major supplier of cocaine, crack cocaine and heroin in the Washington-Baltimore region.

At least 16 of those indicted are from Maryland, while the rest are from Washington, New York and New Jersey. (AP)

Feds Agree to Help District Repair, Replace Aging Bridges

The federal government has agreed to work with the District of Columbia to repair and replace bridges in the nation's capital. Mayor Anthony A. Williams and Secretary of Transportation Norman Y. Mineta signed a memorandum of understanding Tuesday providing a framework for cooperation on a number of projects along three miles of the Anacostia River.

The centerpiece of the project is a new Frederick Douglass Bridge, also known as the South Capitol Street Bridge. It would replace a 57-year-old span which now serves as many as 77,000 vehicles each day. (AP)

Oken Challenges Execution

ANNAPOLIS, MD. | A lawyer for Steven Oken, hoping to postpone the execution of the convicted murderer and rapist, told Maryland's highest court Tuesday that a three-drug mixture prison officials plan to use to put Oken to death next week violates state law.

When the legislature abandoned the gas chamber in favor of lethal injection, it mandated the use of two drugs, not three, Fred Warren Bennett told the Court of Appeals.

Oken was sentenced to die for the rape and murder of Dawn Marie Garvin in Baltimore County in 1987. He is seeking an indefinite stay of the execution order to give him time to challenge the method of death at the circuit court level. (AP)

Incumbent Moran Wins Nomination*Outspoken Democrat fights back strong challenge by Rosenberg

ARLINGTON, VA. | Rep. Jim Moran, D-8th, beat back an aggressive primary challenge Tuesday to win nomination to an eighth term, overcoming criticism that his comments opposing the Iraq war were tinged with anti-Semitism.

With 75 percent of the votes counted, Moran had 58 percent, compared to 42 percent for Andrew Rosenberg.

Moran, who previously had been easily re-elected, found himself in a dogfight following comments he made at an anti-war forum in March 2003. Moran told the audience, "If it were not for the strong support of the Jewish community for this war with Iraq, we would not be doing this."

Rosenberg, a lobbyist and former aide to Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., jumped into the race following Moran's comments, but said they were just one example of a congressman who "makes headlines for all the wrong reasons."

Moran will face Republican Lisa Marie Cheney in the November general election. The district is strongly Democratic. For example, Al Gore carried the district by nearly 20 percentage points in the 2000 presidential election.

DRESS REHEARSAL: A horse drawn casket is brought to the U.S. Capitol on Tuesday during a practice run of the proceedings for former President Ronald Reagan's state funeral, scheduled for Friday. Reagan's body arrives in the District on Wednesday.

Reagan Returns to Capital

Major traffic delays expected due to procession

WASHINGTON | With former President Reagan's funeral procession set to pass through Washington's suburbs into D.C. Wednesday during rush hour, authorities are warning drivers to expect major delays.

The tentative route will follow the Suitland Parkway, which runs by Andrews, according to the Washington Metropolitan Police. It will then pass into Washington, over the Potomac River via I-395, onto the George Washington Parkway and then back into the city using Memorial Bridge.

The D.C. Department of Transportation said from 3 p.m.

until 9 p.m. Wednesday, Constitution Avenue would be shut between Henry Bacon Drive and the U.S. Capitol. All cross streets will also close.

Twenty-third Street will be open to southbound traffic heading to the Roosevelt Bridge. Inbound traffic from the Roosevelt Bridge will be diverted to the E Street Expressway, though DCDOT discouraged people from taking Interstate-66 in from Virginia.

Maryland State Highway officials are warning drivers to avoid the east side of the Beltway altogether on Wednesday to avoid any residual traffic back ups. (AP)

Remembering Reagan Wednesday's schedule for moving the to former president to Washington:

8 A.M. Nancy Reagan and family arrive at the presidential library in California.

8:30 A.M. Departure from library.

9 A.M. Arrival at Naval Air Station, Point Mugu, Calif.

5 P.M. (Eastern time) Arrival at Andrews Air Force Base.

6 P.M. Formal funeral procession from Andrews to the U.S. Capitol Rotunda. At 16th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW, Reagan's coffin will be transferred from the hearse to a horse-drawn caisson.

7 P.M. State funeral ceremony in Rotunda and viewing for leaders.

9 P.M. Reagan's body will lie in state for public viewing until 7 a.m. on Friday.

Metro Offers Shuttle Buses for Crowds

WASHINGTON | Metro announced plans to run overnight shuttle buses to accommodate the crowds expected when Ronald Reagan's body lies in state at the U.S. Capitol. However, there will be no extra rail service.

Buses will run between RFK Stadium and the Capitol from 11:30 p.m. Wednesday until 6 a.m. Thursday, and again from 11:30 p.m. Thursday through 6 a.m.

Friday. The stadium is about three miles east of the Capitol.

Backseat Drivers, Beware

Mazda's RX-8 holds four, but the driver's seat is the place to be

ROAD TEST | The Mazda RX-8 offers unprecedented opportunities to make your loved ones woozy.

The "Rx" is a prescription-strength emetic for anybody in the rear seats when this fervid little coupe is in full thrash mode. The back seat — though surprisingly roomy and accessible thanks to the car's fascinating demi-doors — ranks up there with the aft cabin of a Porsche 911 coupe on the "are-we-there-yet" list. Rear passengers are left clinging to the smoky glass like one of those Garfield dolls.

The car seems to fold around you as you alight in the deep-socket driver's seat. The high shoulder line and the low floor create an ergonomic space like that of a race boat cockpit, where you're buried up to your chin in machinery. Thanks to a compact motor, the hood slopes away for good forward visibility. In the rear seats, however, the visibility is quite limited. Mazda would probably say the seats are for occasional use. That occasion is hurling.

In motion, the rear-drive RX-8 has the frictionless agility and Beretta lightness of an oversized Miata. The chassis is stiffer than a soap-opera exit line. The electric-assist steering is heavy, taut and

They'd Rather Be Driving

FOREIGN CARS Ford Motor Co. on Tuesday unveiled a new version of its Focus sedan on the eve of China's biggest auto show, courting buyers in the world's fastest-growing market.

The debut came a day after General Motors announced plans to invest $3 billion in China, highlighting intense foreign interest in a market where sales jumped 75 percent last year.

Ford said the decision to unveil the new Focus at Auto China 2004, which opens Wednesday in Beijing, reflects its strategy of developing cars with Chinese buyers in mind.

Akio Toyoda, grandson of the founder of Toyota, tests a prototype vehicle.

The new four-door Focus is "geared to Chinese needs," with more space and European styling for status appeal.

Later Tuesday, Japan's biggest automaker, Toyota Motor Corp., announced plans to open Lexus luxury car dealerships in China by the end of this year.

The company said it plans to have 14 Lexus dealerships in China by mid-2005 to compete with other luxury car makers.

The dominant foreign automaker in China is Germany's Volkswagen, which said last year it would invest another $7.4 billion in the Chinese market. JOE MCDONALD (AP)

I have a 2002 Yukon. During the winter I always receive a static shock when getting out of my truck. Is there any way to ground the truck to prevent this?

Not really. But you can spray the carpet with static guard which usually does away with the problem. If it has cloth seats, spray them too.

I have a friend who insists that a new car should not be driven over 55 mph for the first few months to allow for a break-in period. Can you please settle this dispute?

Today break-in of a new automobile is very minimal. Usually it lasts for the first 500 to 1,000 miles. It amounts to nothing more than avoiding any constant engine rpm for long periods of time, and no full throttle acceleration (usually for the first 200 to 500 miles). That's it.

I have a 1996 Rodeo and the "check engine" light keeps coming on. I've had the sensor replaced and the light continues to come on. What can I do to fix this without taking it back to the shop?

Essentially there is only one thing you can do yourself without a major outlay for test equipment. Check the gas cap.

TiVo Shares Tumble 14% as DirecTV Sells Entire Stake

Shares of TiVo Inc. dropped more than 14 percent Tuesday after DirecTV sold its entire stake in the digital video recorder pioneer. The bulk of TiVo's new subscribers last quarter came through its partnership with DirecTV, which offers TiVo service built into some of its television set-top boxes so that users can pause live TV, easily set up recordings and skip past commercials. #### Rite Aid Exec Gets Probation

Timothy J. Noonan, the former president of Rite Aid whose secret tapes helped prosecutors convict several colleagues in a billion-dollar accounting scandal at the company, was sentenced to two years' probation Tuesday. Noonan is the only one of five defendants sentenced so far not to receive a prison term. (AP)

Virgin Airways to Base New Low-Cost Carrier in NYC

Mayor Michael Bloomberg and Gov. George Pataki announced Monday that New York City will become the corporate headquarters for a new low-cost airline being started by Virgin Airways. The city and state offered a number of tax benefits to Virgin for deciding to locate the new airline in New York City. (AP)

Republicans Push For 'Reagan' Money

Lawmakers aim to put the former president on dimes, $10 or $20 bills

WASHINGTON | Ronald Reagan's enthusiastic supporters say the late president deserves a place on U.S. currency, even if it means a lesser or disappearing role for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alexander Hamilton or Andrew Jackson.

Getting their hero's face on the 10-cent coin certainly will be resisted by Democrats. Last November, on the same day Rep. Mark Souder of Indiana introduced his Reagan dime bill, Rep. Jim McGovern proposed a resolution affirming support of the FDR 10-cent coin. More than half the House Democrats joined him as co-sponsors.

Meanwhile, GOP Rep. Dana Rohrabacher of California plans to introduce a bill to put Reagan on the $20 bill, replacing another venerable Democrat, Andrew Jackson. And the office of Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., said he would push for placing Reagan on the $10 bill now bearing the visage of Hamilton, the first Treasury secretary.

Chris Butler of the Ronald Reagan Legacy Project said its top legislative priority is the $10 bill. He noted that money can be changed without congressional action, and suggested that Reagan dimes could join, rather than replace, FDR dimes.

Senate Democratic leader Tom Daschle said Tuesday a decision on a $10 Reagan note should be left to historians, adding that "the best tribute we could pay to him" would be fully funding research into Alzheimer's, the disease that afflicted Reagan. JIM ABRAMS (AP)

Greenspan: Low Rates 'Unnecessary'

WASHINGTON | Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan says policy-makers probably can boost U.S. interest rates gradually to head off inflation, but he's not ruling out more aggressive action — a strong signal the Fed is poised to raise rates for the first time in four years.

For nearly a year, a key short-term interest rate has been at 1 percent, a 46-year low. With the economy now on firm footing, ultralow rates "will become increasingly unnecessary," he said Tuesday. The Dow was up 41.44 as investors appeared to welcome Greenspan's assessment. (AP)

Lightning Strikes Fast to Land Cup

Tampa Bay's speedy rise to championship even surprises coach

HOCKEY | For the last 10 years, there was no room for the little guys in the Stanley Cup finals.

The list of champions was a familiar mix of big-budget and top-talent teams: Detroit (three times), New Jersey (three times), Colorado (twice), Dallas and the New York Rangers.

There were plenty of stars and familiar story lines, but not much unpredictability.

The newly minted champion Tampa Bay Lightning changed all that, and in an interesting bit of timing, did so just as the other small- and midmarket teams head into the NHL's labor talks looking for a much better deal.

Under general manager Jay Feaster, just three years removed

SILVER LINING: Tampa Bay Lightning's Ruslan Fedotenko hoists the Stanley Cup after his two goals led to a 2-1 victory over the Calgary Flames on Monday night.

from running a minor league team in Hershey, Pa., and coach John Tortorella, who was passed over by bigger franchises, the Lightning developed a plan and stayed with it.

The only surprise was how fast it all came together, just a year after the Lightning won a playoff series for the first time.

"I still can't figure it out, how quickly it happened for us," Tortorella said after a Cup-clinching 2-1 victory over Calgary in Game 7 Monday.

Goalie Nikolai Khabibulin, once so erratic he was seen as more of a problem than a solution, thinks he knows what did it: Doing nothing.

Rather than dismantling the team when they took over, Feaster and Tortorella waited for players such as Martin St. Louis, Vincent Lecavalier, Ruslan Fedotenko, Pavel Kubina, Khabibulin and Brad Richards to gain confidence and grow comfortable with one another.

When they all arrived about the same time, the Lightning did, too.

DOPING

Montgomery, 3 Others Could Face Olympic Ban for Drugs

The U.S. Anti-Doping Agency has sent world 100-meter record holder Tim Montgomery a letter informing him that he may have committed a drug violation that could ban him from the Athens Olympics, a source within the U.S. Olympic movement said Tuesday. Olympic silver medalist in the 400 meters Alvin Harrison and sprinters Christye Gaines and Michelle Collins also received letters, according to the source. The letters are the first formal step in the U.S. Olympic Committee's attempt to punish athletes based on documentary evidence instead of a positive doping test. (AP)

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Ohio State Fires O'Brien For Giving Recruit $6,000

Ohio State fired basketball coach Jim O'Brien on Tuesday after he admitted giving a recruit $6,000 five years ago. Athletic director Andy Geiger said he offered O'Brien the opportunity to resign but the coach refused to step down. Radojevic, a 7-foot-3 center from Yugoslavia, was recruited and signed by O'Brien. Before he ever played for Ohio State, however, the NCAA ruled he was ineligible for accepting $13,000 from a professional team in Europe. (AP)

Agassi Loses in First Round, Again

TENNIS | Andre Agassi, a first-round loser at the French Open, was beaten 4-6, 7-6 (2), 7-6 (3) in his opening match at the Queen's Club tournament by Russia's Igor Andreev on Tuesday.

This was the first time since August 1997 the 34-year-old Agassi has lost three straight opening-round matches.

Andreev ranked 60th and was making his debut in a grass-court event.

After the loss, Agassi failed to show at a news conference. He faces a fine from the ATP. (AP)

Parcells Escapes Fine For 'Jap Play' Comment

PRO FOOTBALL | Dallas Cowboys head coach Bill Parcells won't be fined by the NFL for calling surprise plays used in practice "Jap plays," a remark for which he later apologized and called inappropriate.

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said Tuesday that no action would be taken by the league against the legendary coach.

Parcells made the remark — an apparent reference to the Japan's 1941 surprise attack on Pearl Harbor — while talking to reporters during the Cowboys' minicamp

Monday in Irving, Texas.

Later in the day, Parcells issued a statement apologizing.

Parcells

"I made a very inappropriate reference, and although I prefaced it with the remark, 'no disrespect to anyone intended,' it was still uncalled for and inconsiderate," Parcells said in the statement. "For that I apologize to anyone who may have been offended." (AP)

PETR DAVID JOSEK

WORLD CLASS: American Stacy Dragila broke the world outdoor record in the pole vault by clearing 15 feet, 10 inches on her third attempt at the IAAF Super Grand Prix Golden Spike 2004 meeting in Ostrava, Czech Republic, on Tuesday. Dragila beat by a quarter-inch the record set by Yelena Isinbayeva of Russia.

BY THE NUMBERS: Kenenisa Bekele of Ethiopia broke countryman Haile Gebrselassie's world record of 26:22.75, set in 1998, by finishing the 10,000-meter race at the IAAF meet in the Czech Republic in 26 minutes, 20.31 seconds. Bekele's feat came just nine days after he broke Gebrselassie's 5,000-meter record in 12:37.95. (AP)

Fisher May Opt Out of L.A. Soon

Point guard mulls fate as Lakers take on the Pistons in final series

NBA FINALS | Derek Fisher loves playing for the Los Angeles Lakers and can't imagine himself in another uniform.

It could happen as early as next fall.

That's the last thing Fisher wants to think about right now while the Lakers are playing Detroit in the NBA Finals, but the sharpshooting guard acknowledged it's been on his mind for months.

Fisher, like several Lakers including Kobe Bryant, has the right to opt out of his contract this summer and become a free agent. "I think a lot of it depends on how we finish up as a team," Fisher said.

The Lakers might not be in the NBA Finals if not for Fisher, whose jumper as time expired gave them a 74-73 victory over San Antonio in Game 5 of the Western Conference semifinals. The momentum from that shot has carried the team since.

Singer Jojo may be only 13, but she's got grown-up priorities

PERSONALITY | Jojo can't drive and she can't vote, but the 13-year-old whose debut single, "Leave (Get Out)," recently topped Billboard's singles sales chart can belt out a tune with the emotion of a diva.

At first listen, "Leave" — with teenage love-themed lyrics and a video set in a high school, just like Britney Spears's first song — makes it seem Jojo is another prepackaged pop idol.

However, Jojo prefers to downplay her age, and says the songs on her self-titled album, scheduled for release June 22, are for everybody.

"I talk about things that are real to teenagers, and to people in general," the Foxboro, N.J., native said. "It reaches a broad audience and that's important."

Jojo, born Joanna Levesque, said the album encompasses many genres, including the reggae-influenced "Baby It's You," which will probably be her second single. But it's primarily R&B-influenced, particularly with her cover of the hit

"We go through things on a little smaller scale than adults, but still there's drama — and that stuff with boys."

JOJO ON THE TEENAGE DRAMA THAT GOES INTO HER SONGS

1992 SWV ballad "Weak."

"We go through things on a little smaller scale than adults, but still there's drama — and that stuff with boys," she said.

That's part of the reason Jojo loathes the term "child prodigy" and protests the contention that "she doesn't know what she's singing about."

While many children her age were hanging out at the mall on weekends, Jojo was often on free or reduced-lunch programs. Her mother Diana earned a living cleaning houses and singing for churches, and the two shared a bed in their one-bedroom apartment in Foxboro.

"My friends would want to go to the movies and go to the malls, and most of the time, I couldn't," she said.

Jojo performed any small gig she could find, and her mother would save her hard-earned money to make sure the two could afford travel expenses.

Now Jojo's preparing for a summer European tour with R&B superstar Usher.

"I was always so passionate about this," she said, adding that her mother did not always share the excitement. "I'm so glad she was like, 'OK. I'll do this if you really want to.' And I really did."

Everyone Knows It's Indie

LIVE MUSIC | Wilco and Braid, two Illinois rock pioneers of the '90s, come to D.C. tonight at very different places in their careers. Wilco, headlining a sold-out 9:30 Club, has emerged as the leader of the burgeoning alt-country movement. Braid, at Black Cat, was an innovator in the emo scene but faded into obscurity after disbanding in 1999.

Formed in 1987, Uncle Tupelo drew on country elements to reach rock audiences, following the formula laid out by '70s bands like Gram Parsons's Flying Burrito Brothers and Crosby, Stills, Nash, and Young.

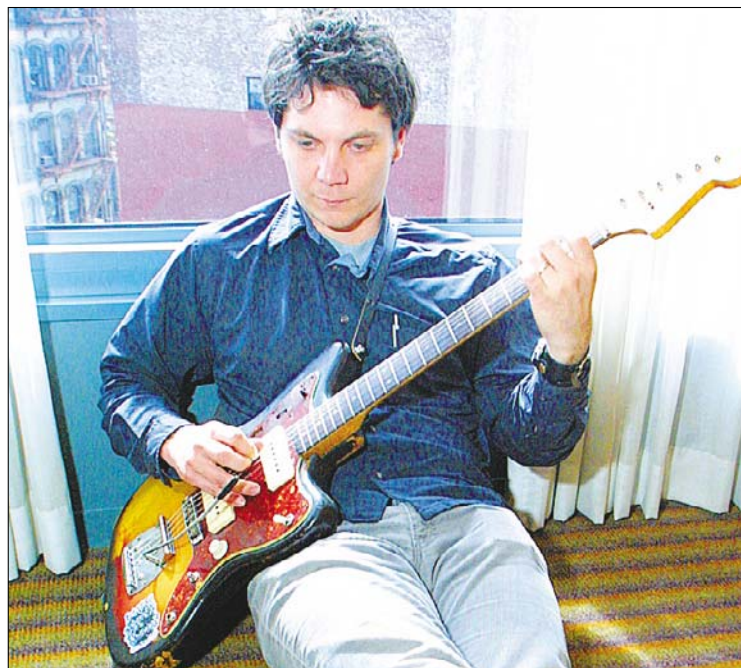

Following Tupelo's breakup in 1994, lead singer Jeff Tweedy created Wilco and presided over an explosion of interest in alt-country music. The last decade has seen Wilco mature and improve with every album and its latest, "A Ghost Is Born," will be released June 22.

Braid, along with contemporaries like Sunny Day Real Estate and The Get Up Kids, applied a polished pop-punk veneer to the hap-hazard chords and tortured wails of D.C. hardcore groups. Its work paved the way for the commercial success of today's crop of watered-down emo-popsters.

Formed in 1993 but gone by the end of the decade, Braid has recently returned to the road to hawk a new retrospective DVD and perhaps cash in on the current emo craze. (EXPRESS)

Summer reading with heroes humble, athletic and military

BOOKS | Among new hardcover books are novels by Robert B. Parker and Helen Fielding, and nonfiction by essayist David Sedaris and war historian John Keegan.

The novels give readers the choice of experiencing the exploits of a real-life hero of the past or those of a fictional heroine of today.

In "Double Play" (Putnam), crime-fiction writer Parker takes readers to 1947, when Jackie Robinson joined the Brooklyn Dodgers and became major league baseball's first black player.

Readers view the season through the eyes of the fictional Joseph Burke, a World War II veteran who is hired by the team as Robinson's bodyguard.

In the latest from Fielding, author of the Bridget Jones novels, the heroine's adventures may be nothing more than a wild-goose chase. In "Olivia Joules and the Overactive Imagination" (Viking), Olivia, a London newspaper reporter, goes to Miami to cover the launch of a cosmetic created by Hollywood producer Pierre Ferramo. She falls for Ferramo, but when she becomes convinced that he's a terrorist — or is it just her overactive imagination? — Olivia embarks on a quest for the truth that becomes a globe-trotting adventure.

In "Dress Your Family in Corduroy and Denim" (Little, Brown), Sedaris offers a collection of essays that reveal the absurdities hiding just below the surface of seemingly ordinary aspects of life. The author mops a floor, directs a lost traveler, attends his brother's wedding, and eats — of all things! — a hamburger.

Keegan turns his attention to the world's most recent conflict in "The Iraq War" (Knopf). Interviews with Tommy Franks and Donald Rumsfeld help Keegan explain the war's causes and consequences, the reason for the invasion and the strategy for conquering Baghdad. He also analyzes U.S. and British intelligence that contributed to the decision to invade Iraq. RON BERTHEL (AP)

More Than Meets the Eye

VIDEO GAMES | The "Transformers," that race of gigantic, shape-shifting robots who turned into cars, airplanes and tanks, have returned in a new Atari game that will rekindle the nostalgia of 20-somethings who loved the toys in the 1980s.

Atari has wisely given the player the option of deciding when the characters should be robots and when they should be vehicles. Each mode has advantages and disadvantages that the gamer may not be able to anticipate.

Here's the backstory: Autobots are the good guys, Decepticons are the bad guys. They come from an alien planet called Cybertron that has been ravaged by civil war, and now the robots have brought that war to Earth.

You can play as three different robots: Optimus Prime, Red Alert and Hot Shot. The goal is to rescue a crew of miniature robots before the Decepticons can capture them. The play has a classic structure, and graphics are top-notch, with the robots having a worn, battle-weary feel and sound design.

Still, it's hard not to miss the original characters. ANTHONY BREZNICAN (AP)

Transformers in Atari's game are not exactly the friendly robots of the '80s.

UP IN THE AIR: In light of the travails Air Franken's liberal radio network has faced, he's been doing as much successful broadcasting lately as Abraham Lincoln.

Liftoff for Air America Radio?

RADIO | When Air America's Al Franken discusses his fellow talk radio hosts, he's almost always baiting them for their conservative stances.

But during a recent speech to a convention of skeptical radio hosts and executives, the liberal Franken was not only self-deprecating, but even gave grudging respect to archrival Rush Limbaugh.

The move gained Franken and Air America a few new friends in the business, and these days, the struggling liberal radio network needs all the friends it can get.

Two months after its ballyhooed launch, Air America finally has some encouraging ratings to show but no tested business plan. Almost all of the top executives have left or been pushed out; the network has developed programs but failed to find stations to air them.

Now, those few executives who remain have done an about-face. Rather than lease airtime on stations and keep ad money for themselves, Air America Radio is adopting the traditional approach to the business. It's going to solicit deals with station groups to carry shows in exchange for shared advertising revenue.

Franken, in an interview, joked that his humble keynote speech was "probably the most I've acted like a politician instead of the least. ... I didn't think there was any percentage in being confrontational. ... They didn't want to hear my politics."

Whether such steps will be enough to keep the network on the air for the long term, or even through the November election, remains to be seen. The network is heard in 15 markets but not in cities such as Los Angeles, Chicago or San Francisco.

Many people in the radio industry said Air America's plan to buy stations or lease airtime wasn't practical. One program syndicator said Air America's absence from another major industry convention, held by the trade publication Radio & Records in February, was widely seen as arrogant.

As for Franken, he gleefully announced last week that he had received a paycheck, after forgoing pay for a few weeks while finances got sorted out. "I have confidence that it definitely will make it," he said, "because we have an audience."

Movies Show Claws

KITTY CINEMA | Suddenly, cat fanciers are feline groovy at the movies. Dogs are taking a back seat to the preferred movie pet.

There's Puss in Boots, the swashbuckling CGI-animation orange tabby of "Shrek 2," who is not above indulging in a little catnip or coughing up hairballs. In "Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban," Hermione's fluffy, mischievous Crookshanks has a central role. Later this summer, Halle Berry stars in "Catwoman," a spinoff from the "Batman" franchise.

And pouncing into theaters Friday is the live action/animated family comedy "Garfield: The Movie." Jim Davis's comic strip fat cat has starred in TV specials, but "Garfield" marks the lasagna-loving orange tabby's feature film debut. Bill Murray voices the self-centered feline who believes the world revolves around "me-ow."

In this adventure, Garfield finds his cushy life with owner Jon Arbuckle (Breckin Meyer) disrupted with the arrival of Odie, a lovable little dog, Jennifer Love Hewitt is Garfield's vet, and Debra Messing supplies the voice of Arlene, Garfield's gal pal.

And bigger cats are on the horizon: Jean-Jacques Annaud's tiger tale, "Two Brothers," opens June 25.

SUSAN KING (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

Meyer and Hewitt don't seem too ashamed of co-starring with sassy animals.

Farewell to Dangle

COMEDY COPS | Somehow this squad of crime fighters has evaded conviction for police stupidity. Now they're back for the second season of "Reno 911!" at 9:30 p.m. tonight on Comedy Central.

The “Cops”-type spoof, a mockumentary set in Reno, Nev., stars Robert Ben Garant, Kerri Kenney and Thomas Lennon as members of what must surely be the world’s worst police department. In the first episode, the indefatigable — and shorty-shorts-uniformed — Lt. Dangle (Lennon) has landed a job on a bigger police force.

Think his fellow cops are sorry to hear the news? You bet: To attend his farewell dinner, they have to miss the Lady Wolfpacks game they all got tickets for. (Special bonus: a bedroom scene with famous singer Kenny Rogers.) FRAZIER MOORE (AP)

ON TV TONIGHT

'O' NO.
O (8 p.m., WB) This 2001 drama — a hoops-themed update of Shakespeare's tragedy "Othello" — was completed in 1999 but not released that year because of concerns about the Columbine shootings. Josh Hartnett stars as the wrapped-too-tight son of a basketball coach who schemes to destroy the life of a black classmate (Mekhi Phifer).

SO, FOUND THE REAL KILLER YET? Court TV glances back at the case that put the network on the map. Ten years after the murders, the gruesome discovery, the Bronco chase, the courthouse pandemonium, the “dream team” and the shocking acquittal, PEOPLE V. SIMPSON: UNFINISHED BUSINESS (8 p.m., Court TV) will devote an hour to the key events and personalities associated with “the trial of the century.”

Simpson: single father, tireless vigilante.

At 9 p.m., Court TV correspondent Catherine Crier will conduct a live interview with O.J. Simpson. A veteran of the tabloid "Fox Files," Crier is well-suited to this assignment. During an interview with the late Princess Diana's self-aggrandizing brother, she asked him, "If Diana were alive again for only a minute, what would you say to her?" Even he had to wince at that odd lapse of reason and good taste.

If anyone can make O.J. the permanent pariah cringe, it's Catherine Crier.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

STALKERS Of All Things, Why an Actress As Your Imaginary Friend?

A Louisiana man was ordered to stay away from HALLE BERRY, who alleged that he stalked her. A California Superior Court judge granted a preliminary injunction that bars Greg Broussard from coming within 100 yards of the actress, her manager or publicist. The Oscar-winning star and her associates were not in court Monday. Broussard allegedly tried to contact Berry by phone and fax. In a written statement, she alleged that the man “has imagined a relationship with me wherein he and I are engaged to be married and that my manager and publicist are preventing him from being with me.” (AP)

Halle Berry is stalker-free and lovin' it!

LOUDER! Noooooo Comment!

Saying his personal life is off-limits, singer MARC ANTHONY refused to confirm Tuesday whether he's married to Jennifer Lopez when Matt Lauer of NBC's “Today” show asked the Latin singer how he'd spent his weekend. Meanwhile, the New York Post reported that Lopez is pregnant with Anthony's child. (AP)

SHAKESPEAREAN How Sharper Than A Serpent's Tooth ...

Former President GEORGE H.W. BUSH is planning to go ahead with an 80th birthday parachute jump this weekend. Bush and his wife, Barbara, will attend Friday's memorial service at the National Cathedral in Washington, then immediately return to Houston for a birthday party Saturday and the Sunday parachute jump, said the organizing group, 41(at)80 — as in the 41st president at 80 years old. Nice. (AP)

WINNERS Call It Bland Justice

BILL RANCIC, winner of Donald Trump's NBC hit reality show, “The Apprentice,” is writing a book about his philosophy of business success. Tentatively titled “You're Hired: How to Succeed in Business and Life From the Winner of ‘The Apprentice,” the book will be published this fall by HarperBusiness, the publisher announced Friday. “The American dream is still alive and well, and nice guys can finish first,” Rancic said in a statement. (AP)

HECKLERS They Say It, We Think It

EMINEM and his D12 crew became backstage bullies at the MTV Movie Awards, living up to their names as they hassled people and played pranks. Most of the stars were all smiles onstage — which fans can see for themselves at 9 p.m. Thursday. But backstage, the Detroit rap crew passed the time before their performance by taunting glamorous and beautiful passers-by. When Halle Berry passed by, D12's Kon Artis shouted: “Halle! We love your music!” The Oscar-winning actress, who doesn't record music, ignored them. Artis stopped Sharon Stone in her tracks and caressed her hand. “I love your movies,” he purred. She forced a smile. “I ... love your music ...?” she said with uncertainty, before her entourage hustled her away. (AP)

TO THE EDITOR

IT IS HONORABLE that President Bush chose to designate Friday as a national day of mourning for President Ronald Reagan. However, he might have shown his "compassionate conservatism" by allowing federal contractors to bill for the day, as with other federal holidays. With the cost of living in the District on the rise, it is difficult to look kindly upon a day without pay — especially when the government worker at the next desk is getting a free holiday.

—EMILY LEFFLER
Washington, D.C.

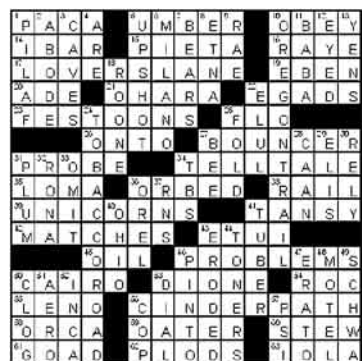

I WAS DISAPPOINTED to find that there was no coverage of Game 7 of the Stanley Cup playoffs in Express on Tuesday due to an early press deadline. One would think there could have been some possible remedy to the situation. Heart joined stick in the final minutes of desperation, but alas, Tampa Bay outpowered Calgary to claim its first Stanley Cup title. Hockey isn't even one of my favorite sports, but I was still disappointed as I read the write-ups of NBA pre-coverage instead of a report on such an inspiring game.

Horoscope | Stella Wilder

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You may be feeling footloose and fancy-free, but the fact is that you have certain responsibilities that you cannot ignore.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — You may be impatient and unwilling to see eye to eye with those who claim to be conventional. You're after something new and exciting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You may be left to pick up the pieces, but fortunately you won't have to do much repair work when all is said and done.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Style is what it's about. You know everything there is to know about making the proper presentation. Let others in on the secret.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — The domestic climate may be stormy but you should be able to enjoy a bright day after addressing a certain issue directly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Someone will do you a favor and you can bet that he or she is expecting to be rewarded in some way. What can you afford?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Someone who appears mild-mannered and harmless may actually be gearing up for a major offensive. Be sure you're on the right side.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You may find that your own jealousy is leading you in the right direction — but soon it will be time to put jealousy aside for good.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Don't think you have nothing to learn. Indeed, the more you watch others and listen to what they have to say, the more you'll benefit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — The financial picture brightens and you'll have more ready cash to play with — at least for a short while. Avoid luxury spending.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You are ready, willing and able to help — and you should be able to do just that before this day is out. Be ready to bring a hidden talent to bear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You can be much more creative even while dealing with routine affairs. An imaginative approach can win you a great deal of attention.

Local Lines

From washingtonpost.com/liveonline

WTOP political commentator MARK PLOTKIN was online Tuesday to discuss local politics, Ronald Reagan and baseball prospects for the District.

If former mayor Marion Barry wins a seat on the D.C. Council, will it just be a step toward another run for mayor?

Marion Barry could not win city-wide. He can win easily, I think, at this point in Ward 8. In '92 he ran against a 16-term incumbent, Wilhemina Rolark, and got 70 percent of the vote. Really unbelievable. He is a folk hero out there.

He told me in an interview that he has no intention of running for mayor, and on this I believe him.

I think Reagan should go down in history as one of the worst presidents. Why this media canonization?

Right after someone prominent dies, the media has a tendency — and I am as guilty of it as anyone else — to just talk about the favorable and positive attributes of a human being, and wait a while to give a more balanced and maybe accurate depiction of the person. I think you will see more critical and important distinctions made about Reagan's life in its entirety.

What are you hearing about baseball coming back to D.C. in 2005?

The guys who are supposed to know about this on the D.C. Sports and Entertainment Commission think that D.C. has got it. And that around the All-Star Game, Major League Baseball will make the decision, and Peter Angelos, of the Baltimore Orioles, will be paid off some way.

Now let me tell you this: I will do everything in my power — and I couldn't be more serious — that if baseball comes to D.C., the name of the team will not be — I repeat, will not be — the Washington Senators. We don't have two senators and until we do we shouldn't be called the Washington Senators. This team should never be allowed to be called the Washington Senators.
